

<http://e-flt.nus.edu.sg/>

Electronic Journal of Foreign Language Teaching
2013, Vol. 10, Suppl. 1, pp. 354–355
© Centre for Language Studies
National University of Singapore

Contributors to this Issue

Barnard, Erlin

Dr. Erlin Barnard is Pedagogy Coordinator at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She supervises foreign language instructors and oversees their pedagogy development. She has conducted program and curriculum reviews as well as materials development for various languages, including South Asian, East Asian, and Southeast Asian languages. Barnard co-authored two online courses: “Fundamentals of Language Teaching Methods” and “Introduction to the US Educational System for Language Instructors,” an online Indonesian Reading Lessons, “Ayo Membaca,” and a two-volume conversational Indonesian textbook, “Ayo Berbahasa Indonesia,” published by the University of Hawai’i Press.

Bhatt, Sunil Kumar

Sunil Kumar Bhatt is Lecturer and Convener of the Hindi Language Programme at the National University of Singapore. He received a Ph.D. in Comparative Linguistics (Comparative Analyses of Croatian and Hindi Tenses) from the University of Zagreb, Croatia, and an M.A. in Russian Language and Literature from Delhi University. His research and teaching interests include Structural Linguistics, Slavic and Indian languages, Sociolinguistic Situation in South Asia, Language Endangerment and Second Language Acquisition.

Ho, Gia Anh Le

Gia Anh Le Ho’s research interests include the use of blogging and social media in pedagogy, second language curriculum development, Vietnamese pragmatics, and the characteristics of advanced language learners. She has published various papers on those topics, including a chapter in Pragmatics & Interaction, a refereed series published by the University of Hawai’i National Foreign Language Resource Center. In addition to second language teaching and research, she is also passionate about mindfulness education.

Indrianti

Indrianti is a lecturer of Indonesian language at the Centre for Language Studies at NUS. She received her M.Ed in Teaching English as a Second Language (TESOL) from Boston University. Prior to joining NUS, she taught English at Sanata Dharma University Indonesia. In 2004, she received a Fulbright Grant to teach Indonesian as a foreign language at the University of Hawaii, Manoa. Her research interests include computer assisted language learning, materials development and intercultural studies in language learning.

Istanto, Johanna W.

Johanna W. Istanto is the Convenor for Bahasa Indonesia Programme at the Centre for Language Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, National University of Singapore, since 2003. She leads the programme, and coordinates the teaching and learning processes for all undergraduate modules (ranging from elementary to advanced levels). She has been developing teaching materials such as grammar books, podcasts, vodcasts, online reading materials, and authentic reading materials for the beginners' and intermediate levels. Prior to joining NUS, she taught English and Indonesian as a foreign language in various institutions in Indonesia and Japan.

Nomoto, Hiroki

Hiroki Nomoto is a Member of the Linguistic Society of America and the Linguistic Society of Japan. His main areas of research are syntax and semantics of Malay languages. He is a specialist of Malay language education as well as of descriptive study with the perspective to a general linguistic theory.

Rafferty, Ellen

Dr. Ellen Rafferty is Professor of Indonesian language and literature at the University of Wisconsin, teaching Indonesian literature and sociolinguistics of Southeast Asia. She is past president of the Consortium for the Teaching of Indonesian (COTI) and has been active in the development of materials for Indonesian instruction. Rafferty is the lead author of "Ayo Berbahasa Indonesia," a two-volume text for the learning oral proficiency skills, and "Asyik Berbahasa Indonesia," a three volume text for learning grammatical structure and writing skills, published by the University of Hawai'i Press.

Suwarno, Peter

Peter Suwarno is an Associate Professor and Associate Director of Undergraduate Studies at the School of International Letters and Cultures, Arizona State University. His teaching includes Indonesian language and linguistics; and his research interests include linguistics and religious communication. He authored the "Dictionary of Javanese Proverbs and Idiomatic Expressions."

Tomimori, Nobuo

Nobuo Tomimori is Professor of General Linguistics and Language Education at Tokyo of Foreign Studies, Tokyo (1989-2012). He is Special Researcher at the World Language and Society Education Center of the same university (2012-), and Chief Organiser of the grants-aided research project on "Language Teaching Methods and Interlingual Evaluation Systems for Asian Languages."

Walker, Izumi

Izumi Walker is currently the Assistant Director of the Centre for Language Studies and Convenor of the Japanese Language Program at the Centre for Language Studies, National University of Singapore. She received a PhD in Japanese Applied Linguistics from Waseda University, Tokyo, and an MSc degree in Applied Linguistics from Edinburgh University, UK. Her current research interests are Business Japanese Education, and the use of media materials for the teaching of "Taigu-Communication."