

<http://e-flt.nus.edu.sg/>

Electronic Journal of Foreign Language Teaching
2005, Vol. 2, No. 1, pp. 89-90
© Centre for Language Studies
National University of Singapore

Contributors to this issue

Chiba, Satomi

Satomi Chiba is a lecturer at the Centre for Language Studies at the National University of Singapore. She obtained her M.A. in Comparative Literature from the Pennsylvania State University and B.A. from Aoyama Gakuin University in Japan. She has taught Japanese in the U.S. and Japan.

Freiermuth, Mark R.

Mark R. Freiermuth is an Associate Professor of Applied Linguistics at Gunma Prefectural Women's University in central Japan. He teaches a variety of courses in the English Communication Division of the International Communication Department at GPWU. Besides his continuing interest in using simulations to promote language learning, he is also interested in the ways that computers are used as a tool of communication. His research endeavors reflect these interests.

Hu, Chieh-Fang

Chieh-Fang Hu is a professor at the Department of English Instruction, Taipei Municipal Teachers College. Her research interests include the study of individual differences in spoken and written language development. Her current study addresses how brief exposure to phonological patterns affects the tuning of phonological awareness and the learning of new words in another language.

Mangenot, François

François Mangenot is chair professor of applied linguistics at Stendhal – Grenoble 3 University (France). He has also worked in Besançon, Lyon, Turin, Belgrade and Vienna. He has been researching in CALL for now more than 18 years (Ph. D., habilitation). He has published a book (Les aides logicielles à l'écriture) and various software (Écritures automatiques, Gammes d'écriture) on writing and computer, and a number of papers about multimedia and e-learning in foreign language teaching.

Nguyễn, Văn Chính

Nguyễn Văn Chính has taught Vietnamese as second language to foreigners since 1980 at National University of Hanoi, and University of Phnom Penh (1982-1985, and 1987-1989). He obtained a Ph.D in Linguistics and Literature in 2000 from National University of Hanoi. Besides teaching Vietnamese to foreigners, he also teaches applied linguistics to Vietnamese students in Department of Linguistics and Literature in National University of Hanoi.

Prathoomthin, Sasiwimol

Sasiwimol Prathoomthin is a lecturer of Thai as a foreign language at the Centre for Language Studies of the National University of Singapore (NUS). She received her M.A. degree in English Studies from NUS in 2000. At NUS, she has been teaching Thai to students at various proficiency levels since 1999. Her research interests are in the development of teaching materials, strategy use in foreign language learning, and foreign language teaching methodology.

Su, Min-hsun Maggie

Min-hsun Su is an assistant professor at the Northern Taiwan Institute of Science and Technology, Taipei, Taiwan. She holds an ED.D. in education and teaches English as a Second/Foreign Language. Her current research interests include foreign language teaching and learning, ESL/EFL learning strategies and learning motivation, and English for Specific Purposes.

Wong, John

John Wong teaches ESL in Hong Kong and specializes in computers in education, with a focus on web authoring. For the past three years, he has been presenting his works on web-based listening instruction and giving workshops, both local and overseas, to encourage more ESL practitioners to incorporate the web in the teaching of listening. He is at present completing a project named Interactive Online Listening Assistant (IOLA).

Zourou, Katerina

Katerina Zourou is about to finish her PhD at Stendhal - Grenoble 3 University (France) in the field of computer-supported collaborative language learning. Working in multicultural teams abroad in the last few years, she currently provides consultation on educational issues to the European Commission in Brussels.