

<http://e-flt.nus.edu.sg/>

Electronic Journal of Foreign Language Teaching
2010, Vol. 7, Suppl. 1, pp. 172–173
© Centre for Language Studies
National University of Singapore

Contributors to this Issue

An, Meishan

Meishan An is Associate Professor for Applied Korean Language in the Department of Foreign Languages at Weihai Vocational College in China. She has conducted research and published in the areas of Vocational and Technical Education, Business Korean, Teaching Styles and Curriculum Development.

Chan, Wai Meng

Wai Meng Chan is Associate Professor and Director of the Centre for Language Studies at the National University of Singapore. His research currently focuses on learner autonomy, metacognition, language learning motivation and the application of new technologies in language learning.

Chi, Seo Won

Seo Won Chi received her M.A. degree in Teaching Korean as a Foreign Language from Kyung Hee University. Her research interests are in the study of errors made by Korean language learners in their essays or compositions, and in materials development. She is currently focusing on research into the learning motivation of Korean language learners in Singapore.

Chun, Min-ji

Min-ji Chun is currently teaching Korean as a Second Language and enrolled in the Doctoral Program of the Department of Korean Language & Literature at Kyung Hee University. Her research interests lie in the study of pragmatic aspects in the teaching of speaking such as repairs, back-channeling, turn-taking, interaction with others and negotiation of meaning in discourse.

Jin, Zhe

Zhe Jin is Vice-Dean and Professor of Korean Studies at Shandong University. His current research interest is in the Teaching of Korean as a Second or Foreign Language. He has been active in the supervision of the theses of numerous graduate students in Korean Language and Literature in China.

Kang Kim, Hyewon

Hyewon Kang Kim is Honorary Research Associate of the School of Modern Languages and Cultures, and the founder of the Korean Program, The University of Hong Kong. She is also Director for Hong Kong of the Comparative Research Society of Korean & Chinese Literatures and an Executive Committee Member of the Journal of Study on Language and Culture of Korea and China. She has published extensively on comparative cultures & literatures in Korea, Hong Kong and China. She developed a Major Program for Korean in 2005 for Hong Kong's higher education.

Lee, Jung-Hee

Jung-Hee Lee is Assistant Professor and Head of the Department of Korean Education in the Institute of International Education at Kyung Hee University. Her research focuses on the language production errors of Korean language learners. She has published numerous journal articles on language production errors and Korean language teaching methodology. In addition, she is the author of several textbooks for Korean as second/foreign language.